FOREWORD

This publication is brought to the Summer School students of 1933 with a two-fold purpose: to facilitate acquaintance and to serve as a lasting record supplementing the memories of an enjoyable and educational six weeks.

It has been the experience of previous Summer Schools that the first two weeks of the session are spent on slowly becoming acquainted with fellow students and the new surroundings. With the help of this publication we hope the students will overcome these necessary preliminaries without loss of time.

At heart most people are scientific collectors, and derive much satisfaction in recording experiences. This book is intended to serve as a memento of people, places and events, and for this purpose space has been provided.

The President's Welcome

During the summer months opportunity is provided for phases of educational activity at universities which are not possible when the regular work of the university is proceeding in the winter term. These activities are indicative of the many realms of thought in which the modern university participates, and of the many bulwarks of civilization on which the modern university stands guard. At the university of Alberta, in a plan of summer work which increases in variety year by year, the central theme is the session in which the Department of Education and the University join their forces. This session provides an opportunity for contact between teacher and university which makes possible to the staff of the University a better appreciation of the problems of the school and of the essential unity of the programme of education. There is much which the university may give to the teacher in return.

It is a pleasure to welcome to the campus the students in the courses of the Department of Education and of the University. As in the groves of the Academy the students in ancient Athens found fitting surroundings for philosophic thought, so too, in the environs of the university which are endowed this year with a rare beauty, may you find conditions happy for the pursuit of the things of the mind—and not unapt as well for the cultivation of the energies of the body.

ROBT. C. WALLACE.

A Welcome From Mr. McNally

Years ago the Summer School set as its principal objectives the equipping of teachers to do better the things which in the nature of the case they were almost sure to have to do anyway. For this reason the great majority of the courses have had to do with the learning process, the technique of teaching and modern classroom procedure. Recently background courses of a broadly cultural character have been added until now the programme is a well balanced one wherein teachers may find inspiration, instruction and actual practice.

The movement for summer study in Canada dates from about the beginning of the present century, though a summer course in industrial drawing was offered by the Department of Education in Ontario in 1884.

The "Summer School of Science," which served all three of the Maritime Provinces, was organized in 1887. Summer sessions such as ours were not introduced generally until about 1910. During the present summer it is probable that work of this character will be carried on in not less than fifty centres in Canada with well over ten thousand students in attendance.

From the outset the teachers of Alberta have given our Summer School excellent support. The highest enrolment in its history was recorded last year. We anticipate an attendance of one thousand at the present session. We realize that this involves the foregoing of well-earned rest and recreation as well as considerable inconvenience and sacrifice on the part of many people. Our main purpose is to make this opportunity as serviceable to you as possible and trust that your highest hopes in planning your courses may be more than realized. We bid you welcome to the 1932 session and all its facilities for work and play. Make use of both.

THE HISTORY OF THE SUMMER SCHOOL

In the twentieth annual Summer Session, to be held at the University of Alberta, from July 4 to August 15, 1932, and administered jointly by the Department of Education and the University of Alberta, there will be enrolled almost one thousand students. To many of this number, with pleasant recollections of previous Summer Sessions uppermost in their memories, the sight of familiar surroundings suggests similar pleasures during the 1932 session. To others, Summer School calls forth, in place of vivid memories, eager anticipation, and thrill of a new experience. But whatever the position of the student, we are sure that this summer will compare favorably with past memories, and more than fulfil the highest expectations.

The very surroundings in which he is to spend the summer would seem to vindicate this assurance. The whole University plant is at his disposal. Its ideal location, beautiful campus, splendidly equipped residences, and large dining-hall afford splendid living conditions at a minimum of expense. A competent staff, up-to-date lecture rooms, a well-equipped library, and a students' supply shop, help to make study a pleasure. Opportunities for recreation are many and varied. Tennis enthusiasts will enjoy playing on the well-cared-for University courts. Baseball, basketball, hiking, swimming, and golf add to the holiday atmosphere. Each year there are several opportunities of attending special lectures, concerts, and recitals in Convocation Hall. The friendly atmosphere characteristic of the social functions makes them decidedly popular. Who can afford to miss the Informal Dances, the Garden Party, the Theatre Party, the annual visit to the Edmonton Exhibition, the picnics at neighboring beaches, the Reception, or the Display of Summer School work?

The Summer School has, indeed, earned the right to the motto, "Serious Study under Ideal Holiday Conditions." The courses offered by the Department of Education and the University provide opportunity for improvement in both professional and academic standing. Their scope is wide enough to include almost every line of interest; they provide contact with the best instructors of the province, facilitate the exchange of ideas, insure fresh points of view, promote the use of modern material—in short, make for better qualified, more alert, and more progressive teachers.

That the Summer School holds a prominent position among the educational institutions of the province is an accepted fact, but it must be borne in mind that the steady growth and expansion of the school is the outcome of nineteen years of painstaking thought, careful planning, and diligent supervision.

In 1913, in order to provide opportunity for teachers to secure the training necessary to enable them to do better work in Elementary Agriculture and School Gardening, Nature Study, Household Arts and Science, Manual Training, and Physical Education, the Minister of Education authorized a Summer School for Teachers, under the directorship of Dr. James Collins Miller, B.A., Ph.D., Provincial Director of Technical Education, Edmonton. Seventy-five teachers availed themselves of the opportunity to attend. The Department felt that the school was meeting a real need on the part of the teachers of the province, and made the project an annual one. The response was most gratifying. In 1914 the attendance was 155; in 1915, 310; in 1916, 320; in 1917, 303; and in 1918, in spite of abnormal war conditions, 210. In that year, owing to Dr. Miller's absence from the province, the Directorship was transferred to Mr. G. F. McNally, M.A., Supervisor of Schools, in whose competent hands it has remained since that date. Courses were offered leading to six certificates: Elementary Science, Elementary Household Arts, Elementary Art, Elementary Manual Arts, Elementary Woodwork, and an Elementary Certificate in Primary Work. The next year, 1919, marks the introduction of First Year University subjects into the Summer School curriculum—Latin, French, Mathematics and Science being offered. The attendance during that year was 342, in 1920, 376, in 1921, 467, and in 1922, 620. Meanwhile, classes were increasing both in number and size. Teachers might enrol for specialists' certificates in a number of subjects, they might qualify for First Class Professional certificates, enrol for Academic subjects, or take advantage of the extension in University courses offered.

With the year 1923 we reach a critical point in Summer School history. It had been the custom in previous years, in order to equalize the cost of the Summer Session for all teachers, for the Department to pay transportation charges from any point in the province, provided that minimum requirements with respect to courses were completed satisfactorily. In 1923, owing to the shrinkage of the general revenue of the province, it was found impossible to provide the customary vote for the Summer School for teachers. The Department of Education was advised either to eliminate the Summer School or make it self-supporting. A complete revision of policy became necessary. The allowance for transportation was discontinued, and fees were charged to pay for the cost of instruction and incidental expenses. This new regulation, as was to be expected, resulted in a drop in attendance. In 1923 the enrolment was 340, 270 in Department of Education courses and 70 in the University section. Since that time the Summer School has been conducted upon a self-supporting basis. It is to be regarded as a joint project, conducted by the Department of Education and the University of Alberta, in co-operation to further the best educational interests of the province. The University, by a revision of policy effected in 1926, has made it possible for students who supplement Summer School lectures by winter study, to obtain a B.A. or B.Sc. degree entirely by Summer School courses. The section administered by the Department of Education likewise has a splendid record of continuous progress. In 1927 courses in Dramatics were introduced, and in 1928 special courses in music appreciation and rural education were added. Courses pertaining to High School work have proved themselves very advantageous. The increase in enrolment alone, during these last few years, attests the popularity of the school. In 1928 the attendance was 570, in 1930 it was almost 700, and in 1931 an enrolment of 875 shattered all previous records. Of this number, 725 were registered in the Departmental section and 150 in the University section, truly an institution to be proud of.

No better indication of the wide scope of Summer School studies could be obtained than by a bird's-eye view of the courses outlined for 1932. The Department offers courses in Art, Elementary Science, Primary Work, Intermediate Grade Work, Music, Physical Education, Dramatics, Voice Culture, special courses for High School teachers, Secondary School, and Normal School subjects, Oral English, Languages, and requisites for First Class Professional Certificates. Included in the University list are Chemistry, English, French, History, Mathematics, Political Economy, and Psychology.

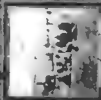

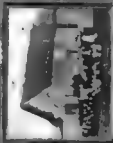

As we look back over the uphill road which we have travelled from 1913 to 1932, we take pride in the distance we have come; but we realize that there would be little satisfaction in accomplishment if we did not feel the urge to climb yet higher, and the inspiration of a goal that is difficult of attainment. With the assurance of a good record behind us we, the class of 1932, turn our attention to the road ahead of us, and as we approach the next milestone, in our ears ring the words of Robert Louis Stevenson: "To travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive, and the true success is to labour."

STUDENTS' UNION EXECUTIVE

The success of the social, athletic and recreational activities of the Summer School is dependent largely on the securing of a good executive for the Students Union. The executive should be elected as soon as possible—not later than the first Friday of the session.

The director of the Summer School will appoint a "nominating committee" early in the first week. This committee will receive nominations for the various positions on the executive, and will also conduct the elections. The executive consists of a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and three general members. When the nominating committee has received all the nominations, the elections shall be held. The candidates for president are usually allowed five minutes to speak at the mid-day meal in Athabasca Hall, after which the election of officers takes place. The resident students vote in the dining-room and the overtown students in the common room.

As soon as the results of the election are made known, the president shall call a meeting of the executive. At this first meeting the executive shall make a general outline of the functions which it intends to sponsor. It should also draw up a budget.

A very important part of the work of the executive at this stage is the appointment of committees. Generally speaking, the following committees are appointed: program committee, social committee, tennis committee, sports committee. There should be five or six real live members on each committee. If you are appointed to a committee, do not refuse to act, or grumble about it, but rather do your bit towards making it a really efficient committee.

After the appointment of committees, the executive plans its first social function. This is usually held early in the second week, and is of such a nature as to enable the students to get acquainted. Social events of various natures are held throughout the session, and include a garden party, theatre party, picnic, reception to the staff, etc. The executive also sponsors the "house dances" held three times a week in the lounge or gymnasium of Athabasca Hall.

Remember that the success of the summer's activities depends entirely on the whole-hearted support of every student. Attend the functions provided for you and thus encourage your executive.

RED LETTER DAYS OF SUMMER SCHOOL

Registration having been completed, courses decided and the routine of work entered upon, the Summer School student is likely to exclaim, "There, that's that! Now what shall we do for excitement?" If such is the question uppermost in your mind, glance at the following headings. Even the most cursory reading of these paragraphs will convince you that the Summer School lives up to its slogan—"Serious Study under Ideal Holiday Conditions."

Informal Dances.

It has been the custom to hold informal dances in Athabasca Lounge on three evenings a week—Tuesday until 10.30, Friday until 11, and Saturday until 11. The admission to these dances is restricted to Summer School students. A good floor, a competent orchestra, and congenial company assure you of a good time. It is seldom that there occurs such an opportunity of meeting representative young people from all parts of the province, yet whose similar aims and ambitions are conducive to the formation of lasting and worth-while friendships.

The Edmonton Exhibition.

'Heigh ho,—Come to the Fair!'
Who can resist the call? The eagerness with which the students welcome the customary half-holiday granted by the University to enable them to visit the Exhibition, speaks well for its popularity. The manufacturing displays are a revelation of progress, the livestock exhibits make one realize more fully Alberta's proud position in this regard. The excitement of the Midway, the rejuvenating glow in response to the cry, "Fresh roasted, toasted peanuts!", the laughs and fun of the evening performance before the grandstand, culminating in the elaborate firework thrills, mark this as a red letter day. Yes, we must visit the Exhibition!

The Garden Party.

The Weather Man may force us to play tennis in rubber boots and raincoats, he may convert the campus into a sea of mud, he may even force us to study in pure self-defense—and yet be forgiven, provided that he smiles on one special day—the day of the Garden Party.

It is, indeed, a red-letter day of the Summer Session. Promptly at the specified time, the students assemble at the lower end of the campus, form in twos for the Grand March, and without delay, the long procession winds its way to the tables set up in front of Athabasca Hall. Here each student is provided with a dainty picnic lunch, and directed to the group with which he is to eat supper. Name cards, and the pressing need of nourishment, banish all formality, and soon the buzz of conversation indicates the presence of the usual Summer School sociability.

A sing-song in ideal outdoor surroundings, entertainment upon an unimpromptu stage, stunts and games upon the campus, continue the enjoyment. Instructors lay aside their dignity, students forget their responsibilities, even the executive loses its customary harassed expression—merriment reigns supreme. Then, what more fitting conclusion than 'the best dance of the season!'

True, students and dining-room staff conduct the annual fork hunt on the lawn the following day, but who would destroy a good old Summer School custom?

Plan to attend the Garden Party of 1932!

The Theatre Party.

Major Premise: To see a good picture at any time is a pleasure.

Minor Premise: This pleasure increases in direct proportion to the friendliness and sociability of the company one is in.

Conclusion: The Summer School Theatre Party of course!

It is the custom of the executive to secure special tickets for a worthwhile picture shown in one of the downtown theatres. Judging from the numbers who take advantage of this offer, and from their comments upon the evening's entertainment, the Theatre Party has proved to be a very popular event. Watch for announcements in the Bulletin.

The Students' Reception to the Staff.

If any Summer School student were requested to select, from all the pleasures of the Summer Session the evening from which he experienced the greatest enjoyment, his answer would be "The Formal." And indeed, the reply would be justified, for the Reception constitutes the most important social event of the season. From the day upon which the programmes are issued, until the time of "the big dance," the campus and halls are filled with small groups which hold earnest discussions regarding "the third waltz," and the first supper."

The dining hall, cleared of its tables and tastefully decorated for the occasion, presents a true holiday aspect. Music and floor fulfil the highest requirements, the supper is delicious, perfection is the keynote of all the arrangements.

To those who have never had the good fortune to be present at a Summer School Reception, description must necessarily seem incomplete, to those who can number this event among their most enjoyable memories, praise must seem inadequate. Suffice to say that the Annual Reception marks the climax of the season's social activities, and in the recollection of Summer School pleasures, the premier place is given, invariably, to "The Formal."

Special Features.

Through the kindness of the University opportunity is offered to the students and their friends of hearing special lectures and recitals held in Convocation Hall during the course of the summer. It is a privilege to be able to enjoy these evenings, and each year the large attendance of students attests the popularity of these special features, and is an expression of grateful recognition of the thoughtfulness shown by the University.

ATHLETICS

TENNIS

One of the major sports of Summer School is tennis. The four shale courts behind Assinibosa are rented for the season from the University Tennis Club, and are at the disposal of the students who pay the Students Union fee.

At the beginning of the session the Students' Union Executive appoints a tennis committee, who arranges tournaments in men's singles, ladies' singles, men's doubles, ladies doubles, and mixed doubles. Every student should enter the tournaments for the fun, and more especially for the acquaintances that are made on the courts.

It has been suggested that a house competition be started this year. This might take the form of an inter-table tournament in which stars of the various tables would compete. The spirit of friendly rivalry thus created would provide added enthusiasm and interest.

BASEBALL

In the past the men have organized a baseball team and played several games with city teams. Last year the team played home and home games with Alberta Hotel and Wetaakwin. The annual game between the markers and students has always been of special interest.

The necessary equipment is available, and men wishing to practice should notify the PT instructor. Games can be played on the Grid or at the South Side Park.

SOFT-BALL

Soft-ball holds an enviable position on the Summer School program. Its popularity has been shown by the enthusiasm of its participants and spectators.

The first week is devoted to practice games preparatory to entering into competition with city teams. The Union provides equipment necessary for two men's and two or more ladies' teams, that are chosen to represent the Summer School.

A House League for soft-ball would, it is anticipated, capture the enthusiasm of the students and would provide recreation for a greater number. Turn out for the practices and be on a team.

BASKETBALL

Basketball is played by both men and women students of the Summer School. The games are played in the excellent gym at the Edmonton Normal School. The inter-normal competition is keenly contested.

SWIMMING

At the South Side Pool classes in swimming for students are organized. At these classes instruction is given to beginners and to those wishing to improve their strokes. More definite information regarding the arrangements will be given in the daily bulletins.

TENNIS TROPHIES

McNally Cup

Mr G. F. McNally, Director of Summer School for Teachers and Supervisor of Schools, offered in 1931 the McNally Cup, to be awarded each summer to the winner of the men's singles in the Summer School tennis tournament. The first to receive this honor was Harold Richard.

Young Cup

Mr F. Young, Technical School, Calgary, has presented this year a cup to be awarded to the winner of the ladies' singles. As this is the first year of the Young trophy, a signal honor awaits the champion of this summer.

Summer School students are indebted to Mr. McNally and Mr. Young for the enthusiasm which they have expressed in such a practical and appreciable manner.

PLACES OF INTEREST ABOUT EDMONTON

For those students who wish to enjoy themselves at local places, the following suggestions are made:

UNIVERSITY RESIDENCES

The University Residences located on the campus are very comfortable and convenient for students. Pembina, on the south, is a girls' residence. During Summer School, Athabasca, the centre building, is also a girls' residence, with the exception of one corridor. Assiniboia, on the north, is a men's residence. Meals are served in Athabasca dining room, which lies immediately behind the lounge room. During the week meals are served at the following hours:

Breakfast, 8 a.m.

Lunch, 12:15 p.m.

Dinner, 6 p.m.

On Sunday at 8:30 a.m., 1 p.m., 5:30 p.m., respectively

During the first week a special committee is selected to arrange the seating in the dining room. It has been the custom in the past to assign eight women and four men to a table. Students desiring to make special arrangements for the personnel of their table should submit their wishes to the committee early.

While the ciphers stand, Grace is sung before each meal.

The bells in residence ring as follows:

Rising bell, 7:00 a.m.

Second bell, 7:30 a.m.

Breakfast bell, 7:55 a.m.

Lunch bell, 12:10 p.m.

A MESSAGE

from each of our supervisors in residence, who have done much to make our stay enjoyable and who, we are glad to know, will be with us again this session.

The growth of the Alberta Summer School is remarkable. The increasing attendance, the atmosphere of serious studying, the manifoldness of its social and athletic activities all testify to its excellence and to what is more important, the whole-hearted appreciation and co-operation of the students.

After ten months' daily intercourse with children, it is highly beneficial to teachers to come into contact with mature minds, and to discuss their common problems. Not only by attending the lectures is the full value of Summer School to be obtained, but also by active participation in the social activities, it is a personal loss to live to oneself during the session.

So here's to another happy session, here's to our Summer School, to its growth, its helpfulness and its worth in the educational world.

GERTRUDE J. WRIGHT

The Summer Session is now looked upon by many teachers as their annual vacation. This is due to the fact that many opportunities are afforded to meet the other student in athletic and social activities. The time table is so arranged that these need not interfere with one's more serious studies.

After a strenuous year's teaching one needs relaxation. This can be obtained by the change from teacher to pupil and by active participation in the various activities fostered by the Students' Union.

Make this your holiday by meeting your fellow students at the socials and in sports. Give your officers your whole-hearted support. Then you will want to come again.

FRED G. YOUNG.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL DAILY BULLETIN

To record red letter days of the Summer School Session, to announce important regulations, to maintain a sports section, to run a lost and found column, to classify an extensive list of news items, and withal, to gratify the artistic sensibilities of the student body, would be no mean accomplishment. Yet such is the difficult task performed most creditably each year by the Summer School Daily Bulletin. As we glance through the files of these papers, we assure ourselves once again that a sense of humor is a blessing, and maintain that these gleanings are sufficient evidence that even amid hours of labor there sparkles many a ray of mirth.

The Story of Frances and Helen

They are good friends, but they have been apart for some time.

In the city of Winnipeg, some years ago there lived two girls, Frances and Helen. They were both very good friends. After he had been in the office, a business woman of more than ordinary ability, she had a salary of from $175 to $200 per month.

As the years rolled round, Frances' earnings totaled not more than one-half of those of her more capable friend, Helen. Helen speculated in real estate, or whatever was the fashionable speculation of the day, and at various times was reputed to be worth considerable money. Frances, and comfortably, but not extravagantly, contributed in a reasonable way to the churches and charitable institutions, thus taking her part as a good citizen. Helen, of course, also contributed, but much more freely than Frances, because money came to her so much more easily.

The Commercial Life Retirement Income Bond is an admirable and absolutely guaranteed means of providing for the days when you shall live in comfort, and it can be done at age 30 for about $11 per month. Yet even after a little less, older ones a little more. But why should anyone go through life in doubt or uncertainty regarding the future days?

which the owner has been in need of for several days.

Philosophically Logical Reasoning

Bulletin No. 20, 1929

"The moon is of greater importance than the sun, because it shines at night, when we need light, but the sun shines in the daytime, when we don't need any light."

Found

Bulletin No. 11, 1930

One fly minus a wing. The bugologist who lost the same may have it by explaining how it came to be where it was.

But Their Bark is Worse Than Their Bite!

Bulletin No. 10, 1931

If, upon strolling harmlessly down a corridor these days, you are confronted with a frenzied person snapping out commands in a martial tone to modify your style of walking, just remember it is only the effervescence preceding a P.T. test on Monday.

"Carpe Diem" or "Carpe Dancem"

Bulletin No. 17, 1931

"Gather ye dances while ye may."

Next Witness, Please!

Bulletin No. 16, 1931

Will all students who attended the theatre party but did not see the picture, call at the office to get their quarter back.

"Shop early and avoid the rush!"

And 1932? Its success depends upon you and your contribution to the "events worth remembering." Let us give the Bulletin bigger and better accomplishments to record!

JUST WHAT IS an ARCH PRESERVER SHOE?

SELBY ARCH PRESERVER SHOES are not intended for women with deformed or crippled feet. Such women need a doctor. Arch Preserver Shoes are worn by millions of women merely because they are correct scientifically correct for the healthy foot. They literally keep your feet well. Their steel supporting arch, their natural leve inner sole and their scientific last modeling eliminate the nerve irritation and bone crowding that will sooner or later cripple your feet and put lines of age in your youthful face. An Arch Preserver Shoe is a fashionable shoe made the way all good shoes ought to be made correct for your feet. Try on a pair and feel the difference.

You Don't Have to "Die to Win"

Of the sum paid out last year, by the Sun Life its benefit, $68,000,000 was distributed to LIVING policyholders.

The settlments represented in these figures are making golden the sunset years of thousands of men and women, leaving them free from anxiety to do as they please and come and go as they please—rewarding them for their own prudence and thrift in earlier life.
